

Terry Cole

Product Supply Executive

Terry serves as an Engineering Director for Procter & Gamble. In his 30 year career, he has held positions in Manufacturing, Innovation Management and Engineering across the Baby Care and Beauty businesses. For the past 11 years, Terry has led large engineering groups in the United States, across Asia and around the world. He has extensive experience in developing organizations to deliver outstanding results and building capability for the future.

Terry earned his bachelor's in Chemical Engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York.

Terry's interests include personal fitness, triathlon, travel, and singing in choir. He and his wife have lived in China and Singapore and now reside in Cincinnati, Ohio. He is a certified Corporate Athlete Trainer and enjoys investing in leadership development around the world.