

Katherine Storer

Supply Chain Executive

Katherine serves as a Senior Director of Supply Chain for Berlin Packaging, a global hybrid packaging supplier. She leads Berlin's North American Supply Chain organization, including the Sourcing, Demand Planning, and Supply Planning disciplines which manage nearly 1 Billion USD across 26 locations and nearly 100 warehouses. In 2021, she was selected as one of Supply & Demand Chain Executive's 2021 Women in Supply Chain.

Prior to joining Berlin Packaging in mid-2019, Katherine spent more than a decade at the Procter & Gamble Company and served as an Adjunct Professor of Business & Economics at the University of Cincinnati. In her various P&G roles, she led globally-distributed teams, drove P&G Purchases' Digital Transformation, and co-created the Relationship Management trainings which P&G Purchases still uses.

She earned her Master of Business Administration degree from the University of Chicago Booth School of Business and her bachelor's degree in Business Management from Anderson University.

Katherine and her husband, Tim, have been married since 2008 and are passionate about equipping future leaders. Before children, they traveled to 36 countries and 6 of the 7 continents. They live in Chicago, Illinois, have 2 young children, and enjoy instilling in their children a love for learning and exploring.
