

Nick Bogan

Vice President – Senour Flaherty Insurance

Nick is the owner and Vice President of Senour Flaherty Insurance, an independent insurance agency serving small- to medium-size business clients throughout the Midwest of the United States.

Within the insurance industry, he has served in various sales roles and has a passion for helping people through personalized risk management. He finds fulfillment in coming alongside business owners and providing real financial security and peace of mind.

Nick earned his bachelor's degree in Business Administration from Hanover College and his master's degree in Business Administration from Xavier University.

He is married and has five children. His interests include music, playing guitar, hiking, and travel.

