

Tim Storer

Supply Chain Executive

Tim serves as Vice President at Conagra Brands, a Chicago-based global food manufacturer composed of more than 70 brands. He leads supply chain operations, strategy, and capability, overseeing the performance of around 15,000 employees.

During his 20+ year career, Tim has served in executive capacities at Conagra Brands, VVF Group, and Procter & Gamble. He founded and sold three companies, taught as an Adjunct Professor of Business and Economics at the University of Cincinnati, and is a board advisor to multiple organizations. He enjoys connecting and engaging with passionate leaders around the world and is a sought-after contributor to industry publications and keynote addresses.

Tim earned a Master of Business Administration degree from The University of Chicago Booth School of Business and a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering from Cedarville University, where he now serves as curriculum advisor. He enjoys innovation, hiking, and traveling with his wife, Katherine, and their two children.
